Teachers Report

A year nine visual arts workshop with Desire Crossing will be held on the 22nd of August. The workshop will be held in two groups.

Next term, a 2 ½ hour portrait drawing and drawing fundamentals workshop will be held, and it is hoped that some of the art will be showcased at the SVAPA exhibition.

Year nine students will attend Wednesday morning workshops with Moya Thomas in semester two in preparation for Tiny Works.

The year seven students will work with a diverse range of visual arts skills and activities this semester (clay, drawing and painting), heading towards the SVAPA Art exhibition at the end of the year. Trenton Harris will be running early morning classes on Thursdays in semester two to extend them beyond the curriculum, incorporating clay, painting and sketching. They will also have a workshop session in Term 4 with current Archibald prize nominee Desiree Crossing. Artworks created by students in these sessions, alongside selected class works, will be exhibited at the SVAPA Art exhibition and sundowner at the end of the year.

Saturday workshops have been running significantly more in year groups thus far this year. However, Shahna is planning more combined Saturday workshops to improve the sense of SVAPA community.

Treasurers Report

Please refer to the attached report. Louise highlighted that all funds held need to be spent within the twelve-month period. The current balance as of 10/6/26 was $56993.00, with $31268.84 committed funds.

CAHS/SVAPA Collaboration for Pride Parade.

An exciting opportunity offered by Child and Adolescent Health Services (CAHS) for SVAPA students to design and create an original art installation suitable for a parade float aligned with Pride themes. The initiative aims to provide students with a platform to creatively express themes of pride and inclusion, showcase youth perspectives, strengthen partnerships between schools and health services, and promote visibility for diverse young people. The event is to take place on 28th November, with the installation to be completed by 27th November. CAHS will provide the backing canvas or corflute to the dimensions the float requires, and the school agrees to. Mount Lawley will receive recognition and promotional opportunities through CAHS communications. An example of the space is below (note: the truck has yet to be selected, so dimensions may differ):

A possible combined extra-curricular workshop is being considered. The committee would need payment for art teachers and materials. There would be an opportunity to exhibit the work at Perth Children's Hospital after Pride. It is hoped that an artist from the LGBTQI+ community will assist. Meg and Shahna will discuss possible artists and then obtain quotes and discuss availability. Mirian will contact John Carey's office for artist suggestions. The students would be covered under CAHS indemnity insurance to ride or walk with the float during the parade. Further discussion will be required at the next SVAPA meeting.
